LSUSD History Database

Who had alligators at the dental school? Who won the Chancellor's Award in 2000? Who was in the first LSUSD class? You can find this information plus an abundance of other facts and trivia in the Dental School Clippings File, a collection of newspaper articles about events, students, faculty, and staff at LSUSD. The file, which Mrs. Margery Suberville, the first LSUSD librarian, started in 1966, is now indexed in a ProCite database on the Web. Articles in the collection cover such topics as commencements; faculty research, honors, and promotions; dental school social events; student scholarship and award winners; and obituaries.

To locate an article about a person or topic, go to the dental school home page. Under Databases you'll see a link to Reference Web Poster, a collection of databases created by LSUHSC library staff members. Select Dental School Clippings File and search for the name or subject you wish to find. Once you find the date of an article, let us know which one you need, and we'll retrieve it from our file for you to read. Although the collection covers 1966 through the present, the index only goes back to 1995 so far. Let us know if you need help using the index or have questions about this collection.

Dental Materials Reviews

Another database in Reference Web Poster is Dental Materials Reviews, an active index of several publications that rate and review dental materials and products. Library staff members read and index new issues of the Dental Advisor, Clinical Research Associates Newsletter, Reality Now, and The ADEPT Report. To see these reviews, click on Reference Web Poster on the library homepage. To search the Dental Materials Reviews database alone, click on the box next to Search and select the database.

It is often very difficult to find information on dental materials and products. The publications that review this type of material are generally not indexed in MEDLINE or other biomedical literature databases. The Dental Materials Reviews database is often the only way to access this information. This database began with the 1998 issues and is updated periodically throughout the year. You can search it by brand names, manufacturers, medical subject headings, or keywords.

Gifts to the Library

Quintessence Publishing Company has added three new journals to the list of titles that it contributes free to our library. These journals, Oral Biosciences & Medicine, Oral Health & Preventive Dentistry, and Perio: Periodontal Practice Today, are published quarterly and are refereed. With the addition of these titles, we now receive 14 journals from Quintessence, plus all of their monographs.

With funds awarded by the LSUHSC Faculty Wives Club, the dental library purchased the 2004 Dental and Dental Hygiene Decks. These popular study aids for national board exams are on reserve and restricted to use in the library. The previous edition of the decks may circulate for overnight use.

The F. Harold Wirth Study Club has bought the library Frequently Asked Legal Questions: A Guide for Dentists and the Dental Team by the American Dental Association Division of Legal Affairs. Because of its looseleaf format, this publication is shelved at the circulation desk in the Reference Reserve collection. The book addresses issues confronting the dental practice, such as dental practice arrangements, avoiding employee lawsuits, insurance issues, HIPAA, OSHA, and contracts.

Featured New Titles

The Art of Dental Therapeutics: Dental Drugs and Over-the-Counter Dental Products [DVD]. by Dr. Peter L. Jacobsen. Chicago, American Dental Association, 2002. (DVD ADA no.1)

In this program, originally presented at the ADA 2001 Scientific Session, Dr. Jacobsen discusses medications commonly prescribed by dentists. This DVD provides an overview of dental therapeutics that may be helpful to dental students before they start working in the clinics.

Nutrition and Oral Medicine, edited by Riva Touger-Decker, David A. Sirois, and Connie C. Mobley. Totowa, N.J., Human Press, 2005. (WU 113 T64n 2005)

This comprehensive text presents scientific evidence to support dietary recommendations and practices that affect oral health. The 18 chapters are divided into 5 sections: nutrition and general health, oral and general health, nutrition and oral health, select diseases with known nutrition and oral health relationships, and oral health education and practice.

Dominic DePaola and Michael Glick are among the 24 contributors. Each chapter examines the research, practice, and current issues of the topic it covers and has an extensive bibliography. HIV, osteoporosis, oral and pharyngeal cancer, and the impact of complementary and alternative medicine on oral health are among the issues discussed in this book.
